

A Journey to Another World

Week 1

The Journey of the Athena V

↪ Astounding news from deep space!

After months out in the farthest reaches of the Milky Way the astronauts of the Athena V have struck gold! A new cluster of planets have been discovered and sit ready for exploration.

The crew are making their final preparations. A probe is being readied and will scan for signs of life, but it won't be able to do everything on its own. We will need your help if we are to discover all the wonders of these new worlds...

Over the next three weeks we will use your fantastic creative ideas to work together and explore these new planets and the astounding aliens that call them home...

A Journey to Another World

Week 1

An Unusual Planet

We are off to a mixed start explorers. Our astronauts have taken their first photographs of the largest planet in the new system, but the images have come back looking pretty...blank.

We need you to fill them in for us, what does this new world really look like?

Maybe it's a planet made of wool, or one that's filled entirely with jelly? Perhaps everything is upside down or floats and bounces around?

Why not draw a picture of what you think the unexplored planet looks like in the circle to the right?

To help you get started there's a few questions to spark your imagination, why not write down your answers in the small circles and use them to help your design?

My Planet!

My Planet is Called...

My Planet is Made of...

My Planet Sounds Like...

My Planet Smells Like...

My Planet is Special Because...

A Journey to Another World

Week 1

Life, But Not as We Know It...

Wow what a beautiful image of a strange and interesting planet, you have captured it perfectly.

But it does get you thinking doesn't it...who or what could live on a planet like this? It's time to discover the aliens that call your planet home!

We want you to tell us all about one of the aliens that lives on your world. To get started we have included a character card with some questions to get you thinking, there's even a space for you to draw what they look like.

Congratulations on all of your discoveries this week, they have been brilliant and just the beginning. Next week we'll be bringing these brilliant designs to life, including creating a 3d puppet! For now make sure you keep all of your designs and ideas somewhere safe and we look forward to seeing you next week explorers.
